

To the FCC:

The decision by Sinclair Broadcasting to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is an alarming violation of election-year laws.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But now it's abusing that privilege for partisan ends.

As someone already alienated from the poor broadcasting quality in this country, I request that you do not make it worse by making it illegal as well as superficial.

Thank you, Mark Ungar
